

ISLANDERS CAPTURE DOUBLE BILL FROM PORTSMOUTH; RICHMOND UNIVERSITY ENLARGES PLANT TO HELP SPORTS

SPIDER ATHLETIC FIELD ENLARGED AND GYM READY

University of Richmond Now Has Plant Unsuspected in This State.

MILLHISER MEMORIAL GYMNASIUM ADEQUATE

Building Will Be Big Asset for Indoor Training of Spider Machines.

With the almost simultaneous completion of the new Roger Millhiser Memorial Gymnasium and the excavation work on Stadium Field, the University of Richmond now has a combination athletic plant that is unsurpassed by any educational institution, at least in the State of Virginia.

Stadium Field has always included a quarter-mile track, a 220 straightaway, and regulation football and baseball fields, but now greater space is provided for regular playing fields that can be kept in good shape for games. In all, the field of the Spiders now has just as much space as the best of the perfectly level, well-drained playing territory. The field now measures 327 feet in width and 740 feet in length, with the shortest field for baseball measuring 275 feet.

The new gymnasium is modern and adequate in every way, conforming to the English collegiate Gothic style of architecture, prevailing in Spiderdom. It includes a locker room for the general student body, special varietal rooms for basketball, wrestling and boxing, a room for the director's office, physician's office, memorial and trophy room, ladies' parlor, tile rooms and lavatories.

Eventually a swimming pool will be added and, in the meantime, the new university lake will furnish bathing facilities.

These facilities are easily reached by the students and visitors, being located in the northwest corner of the 251-acre campus; they are at the terminal of the Westhampton car line and adjacent to the dormitories.

Between new and football season, which opens here with the University of Richmond-University of Maryland game October 7, Stadium Field will be enclosed by a metal fence, over which will be hung a banner reading roses. The fence will not be an eyesore, but will rather lend to the general appearance of the field.

Will Train Women. University of Richmond women who are to be students in Westhampton College hereafter, beginning with the 1922-23 session, will take an extensive and intensive athletic assignment, according to President F. W. Rowland, and work has already begun on a new athletic building, which will be ready in September.

Home-Run Fever Hits Major League Swatters

[By Associated Press.] CHICAGO, July 29.—Smashing out a total of twenty-one home runs for the afternoon's session, and piling up a new world's record for total home runs hit in any one day, major league fence busters today held an open field meet with Ken Williams, St. Louis Browns' slugger, and Babe Ruth, of the Yankees, up in the running.

Williams, by knocking out his twenty-fourth homer of the season, tied his Mackman rival, Tillie Walker, for the American League home-run honors. Ruth boosted his season's total to eighteen at the expense of the Chicago White Sox.

Rogers, of the St. Louis Nationals, who yesterday equaled the National League home-run record, when he clouted out his twenty-seventh against New York, was not in the select circle of game wreckers today.

Of these homers, the National League sluggers were on the long end of the total with four—Rogers, Williams, Williams and Rogers gathered seven.

KESWICK HUNT CLUB TO STAGE HORSE SHOW

Every effort is being made to stage the best show the Keswick Hunt Club has given in years. Julian Morris, chairman of the committee, has conducted many such exhibitions, and is enthusiastic over the outlook. The Orange show will be staged Thursday, Friday, August 2 and 3. Most of the horses to be exhibited at these shows will be seen at Keswick.

A total of seventeen classes will be shown, including the heavy draft horses, saddle ponies to be ridden by a child, ponies in harness, combination horse, heavy harness, hunter, park hacks, hunt teams, and light weight hunters, middle and heavy weight hunters, handicap jumping class, and an army class in the United States Army.

WILLIAM AND MARY RETURNS 14 LETTER MEN IN FOOTBALL

Prospects for Strong Indian Combination This Fall Bright.

NEW COACH EXPECTED TO TURN OUT WINNER

Several Changes Will Probably Be Made on Team.

With all of their letter men except Isham Hardy and Captain "Prex" Wilson returning, and a new coach in charge, prospects for the William and Mary Indians producing a winning eleven this year seems bright. Carl Dietz, who coached the Richmond Athletic Club, will be in charge of the Williamsburg footballists.

Prospects for an unusually large number of high school athletes joining to the Williamsburg institution this year are reported as excellent. Norfolk and Newport News, as well as the rest of the Tidewater schools, will send a large number of prep school performers to William and Mary.

Among the letter men who will return are the Levy brothers, Young, Lowman, Fuller, Haskins, Jordan, Todd, Bennett, Dietz, Joyner, Sorg, White, and Harwood, captain-elect. Tucker Jones to help.

Tucker Jones, well known here as director of athletics in the Richmond Athletic Club, is professor of physical education at William and Mary next year. Jones, in addition, will coach the basketball and track teams, and train the football men.

Given the material to build up a good line, Dietz should develop an excellent backfield in the Williamsburg team. The backfield in the State in White, Joyce and Lionel Levy, and a strong offensive and defensive line.

Last year the Indians suffered for lack of a quarterback, who possessed the qualities of a good field general. Their punting was mediocre throughout the year, with no dependable kicker.

"Flicky" Harwood, as brilliant an end as is to be found in the State, has been elected to lead the Indians next fall. Harwood is the victim of a bad knee, which prevented his participation in the last year's games which the Indians have played.

William and Mary's schedule for the coming season is the heaviest attempted by the Williamsburg team. The Indians will play at State College, the Pennsylvania State College, the University of Maryland, and Wake Forest.

PLAN ATHLETIC GROUP FOR PRIVATE SCHOOLS

University of Virginia Wants League Similar to That Among Public Institutions.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., July 29.—The University of Virginia High School Literary and Athletic League will be ready for distribution to the secondary schools in Virginia by September 15. The league is an organization of all the secondary schools in the State, and has its headquarters at the University of Virginia.

In athletics the private schools of the State will be organized into a league similar to that existing among the public high schools. Championships will be awarded separately, however. An attempt will be made to enroll the smaller high schools in the events of the league. In order to accomplish this the State divisions will be divided into Classes A and B, the first class containing the larger schools and the second class the smaller schools.

Bugs On Toboggan Wail and Squeal

GOSSIP OF SPORTDOM

Prexy Moye Gives Antiquated Statistics

By EARLE LUTZ

Loud wails have come up out of North Carolina anent the winning streak which has put Newport News within striking distance of the Virginia League top. Wilson has appealed to Mike Sexton, vowing that Newport News is above the player limit and is exceeding the salary limit.

The Virginia circuit should be known as the "Peanut League." Last year the circuit was bailed up by a similar complaint, and now the Bugs, like the little fellows they are, are seeking revenge. Newport News is the target, because the Builders have a chance to win the gonfalon, although no complaint was heard from Owner Dawson when he had six players out of the game at one time, four with broken bones.

Dawson is proving the only sportsman in the Virginia League and deserves to win if anybody does. Faced by an antagonistic territory at the beginning of the season, he stuck manfully to the task, and if he is willing to spend money on a town that little deserves it, he should be commended and not discouraged. This is especially true when it is remembered the expense he was put to in carrying his cripples until they were ready to play ball.

If some of the other teams were as ready to spend money as Dawson has been, the Virginia League season would not be the joke it is. For instance, the expenditure of a few dollars by the Richmond team would have meant that the largest city on the circuit would not have a club on the south end of a league going north. As a result amateurs outdraw the professionals two to one when given a favorable date.

President Moye, of the Virginia League, in an attempt to justify his salary, came to life and submitted some antiquated batting averages for the circuit yesterday. As they do not include games later than the middle of July, the statistics make mighty poor ammunition for comparisons.

While Moye has laboriously worked on the averages, the entire complexion of the Virginia League has changed. Instead of Wilson making a runaway race, the Bugs are now in danger of knuckling under to the middle of the season. The Tars have come to life and are threatening to make things interesting. Richmond only has played to form, which means losing consistently.

Virginia League magnates are everything except baseball men or good sports. They make up the most selfish aggregation of self-centered men that could be found. Not a single one, with the exception of Dawson, of Newport News, has any business in the game. To save a few paltry dollars they have done away with a statistician, and as a result league without the done to convince the big fellows stands a poor chance to dispose of its wares. And with empty ball parks, sales make the only source of revenue open.

The Colts surprised themselves yesterday by winning two games in the last day, a feat which has seldom been accomplished in a week. Tomorrow the Colts return for a brief engagement at Mayo Island Park. The Wilson Squealers will be the counter-attraction.

Rube Oldring had quite a job before him. He was called on to drop a moundsman. With one as rotten as the other, he had to choose to choose for him immediately hooked up with the Tars. At least he will be out of the cellar for a few days.

Lotus has also gone, so the Colts have Driver, Lewis, Dodson and Flinnegan in existence. Any one of the four is as dependable as a balmy mule with a white driver.

As the Ledger-Dispatch remarked: "Norfolk fans like the Colts because they make the Tars look like a Million Dollars."

Nobody loves a loser, but Rube Oldring will not forfeit aid of the regard of the Richmond fans because of the poor showing his poor manager has made. There is not a manager in existence who could win with a team that has to be taught the fundamentals of the game on the field, and be held from getting new material by a penny-pinching management.

Some of the college stars who shone so brilliantly during the academic year are just now are starting to realize the difference between major league and college baseball. Following closely the announcement at Fenway that Leroy "Chick" Maynard, of Farmington, had been unconditionally released by the Red Sox comes word from Detroit that Harold "Chick" Gagnon, Holy Cross star, had been sent to Rochester by Manager Ty Cobb, of the Tigers.

LICENSE TO ANGLE IN STATE NEEDED BY NONRESIDENTS

New Law to Conserve Fish to Be Rigidly Enforced by Virginia.

LEGISLATIVE ACTION ON GAME PROGRESSIVE

Moves to Curtail "Pot Hunter" and Fish "Hog" in State.

Warning to nonresident fishermen against angling in any Virginia waters without a license has been issued by W. McDonald Lee, Commissioner of the State Game and Inland Fisheries. The notice is based on an act of the last General Assembly which has just become effective. Under the new law, fishermen must obtain a license in the same manner as a hunting permit, the fee being placed at $2.50.

Par-Hunting Legislation. The work of the recent session of the Virginia Legislature in the interest of game and fish conservation and protection will be far-reaching in its effect, and of benefit to all the people of the Commonwealth. All new laws and amendments are now in full force and effect.

Some much needed legislation was lost in the last minute jam, but some of that which came safely through the legislative mill is of an important character, and distinctly encouraging to those who realize the necessity of wild life conservation work, and are determined to curtail the activities of the "pot" hunter and the fish "hog," and the evil effects growing therefrom—not only in setting in the actual damage done, but making a living from trafficking in the common property of all the people.

Summary of Laws. A summary of the new laws and changes in existing statutes compiled by "The Game and Fish Commission," organ of the Virginia Department of Game and Inland Fisheries, follows:

Prohibiting the shipment of game birds or game animals, protected by law, from one point in the State to another point in the State, except for gift purposes.

Prohibiting the baiting of wild turkeys at any time, for the purpose of killing or capturing same, except that they may be captured for propagation purposes, under permit.

Prohibiting the use of traps from being disturbed or destroyed, except that they may be taken for propagation purposes, under permit.

Protecting wild waterfowl from sale or barter at any time; also, closing the season for killing or capturing same in any manner between February 1 and November 1, subject to rules and regulations of the Federal government for opening or closing the season, in its discretion.

Permitting persons of scientific attainment, agents of museums, teachers of ornithology, etc., to obtain specimens of birds and eggs for scientific study only, under permit.

Can Release Hounds. Allowing the release of fox hounds, kept under kennel license, and actually used for fox hunting, under permit.

Placing the bag limit for bass, bigmouth and small-mouth, at fifteen per day; for trout, California, rainbow, brook or mountain trout, thirty-five per day.

Prohibiting the sale of bass and trout at any time, except that bass caught in Back Bay and its tributaries in Princess Anne County can be sold under proper permit, and those caught in King George and Stafford counties between December 1 and March 1, may be sold outside the State.

RICHMOND WINS PAIR WITH PORTSMOUTH AS UNEXPECTED VICTIMS

Only 20 From Top

Colts Take Both Games by Identical Score of 5 to 4.

GREENAE GETS HOMER

Dodson and Finnegan Winning Pitchers for Surprised Colts.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] PORTSMOUTH, Va., July 29.—For the first time during the 1922 season the Richmond Colts grabbed two games in a single day. The Truakers were their opponents. Coincidentally, both games were won by the same count, 5-4. Today's double victory gave Oldring's club the series with Portsmouth.

Errors contributed to the Truakers' downfall in the first game. The Portsmouth infield had an off day, against it, including one boot by Manning.

In the second game the Colts won largely through straight-away hitting, while Finnegan was holding the home club in check. "Mickey" got two hits himself, including a double, while Greenae and Ramos poled out homers.

Barring a slight tendency to wildness, Finnegan pitched a masterful game, showing the same form which last year put him at the head of the Virginia League hurlers. The first game was a nip-and-tuck mound battle between Dodson and Manning, with honors about even, save for the poor backing received by Manning and to which he himself contributed.

Aragon led the Colts' offensive in the first game with three hits out of six times at bat, including a double. Ramos got two in four times up, including a three-base swat. Keller was the other Colt to achieve more than one base hit during the game, getting two in three times up.

Rashard led the Truakers with the stick, getting three hits in seven times at bat. The fielding of the game were two snappy double plays, both in the first contest. Ramos, by a beautiful peg, caught a Trucker off-balance, and Vincent and Keller and Rooney completed a lightning double play.

In the second game Dodson went in for Keller at right field during the last part of the game.
